Board of Trustees Met, But Transacted Only Routine Matters-Will To-Day Elect a Professor in Law Department.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

LENINGTON, VA., June 16.—The anaual meeting of the Board of Trustees of Washington and Lee University was held this morning at 10 o'clock. There were present Rev. Dr. G. B. Strickler, the rector, of Richmond, Va.; Rev. Dr. R. H. Fleming, of Lynchburg, Va; Rev Dr. E. C. Gordon, of Lexington, Mo.; Rev. A. H. Hamilton, of Augusta county, Va.; C. D. Fishburne, of Charlottesville; Mr. J. A. Preston, of Lawisburg, W. Va.; Mr. L. H. Cocke, of Roanoke, Va.; Mr. A. W. Gaines, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Mr. J. S. Munce, of Richmond, Va.; Judge W. P. Houston, Mr. W. A. Glasgow, Mr. A. T. Barclay, of Lexington, Va.; William Ingles, Radford, Va.
Only routine business occupied the Board of Trustees, such as receiving and passing on reports. It is expected that to-morrow a successor to Professor W. R. Vance in the law department will be elected. The two names prominently metioned are Mr. Frank T. Glasgow, a member of the Lexington bar, and Judge Holt, of the Corporation Cort of Buena Vista.

The annual meeting of the Alumni As-

The annual meeting of the Alumni Association was held this afternoon. The only business of importance transacted was the adoption of a committee report, including a constitution, looking to alumni representation on the Board of Trustees. The report provides for the election of three associate trustees by the board from names submitted by the Alumni Association, the same to be elected, one each year, beginning in 1904. At the end of three years, if not satisfactory, the board has the authority to discontinue the practice. The report will discontinue the practice. The report will be acted on by the Board of Trustees to

GOVERNOR HEYWARD'S ADDRESS.
Governor Heyward, in leading up to his subject, raid graceful tribute to his friends of the old college days, and was heard with the greatest interest.

His theme was, "The Individuality of American Citizenship, a National Specialty." After defining the meaning of the word citizen, Governor Heyward at once laid down the proposition that the hope of the country rested upon the proper conception of the duties, responsibilities and privileges here involved. It was shown that in America the power of the individual, the power of the proper conception of the duties, responsibilities and privileges here involved. It was shown that in America the power of the individual, the power of the proper conception that here, as in no other country, the voice of citizenship was heard and felt in the great government of a great nation. This was the inherent principle, born in the heart of a nation from the carliest settlement, therished by its institutions, and which will play its part in the destiny of the world only because of our free rights of ditzenship. This it is that should sond Americans forth "like Olympians to the great games," where the first-born of the world are competitors.

A rapid survey of historical conditions tollowed, showing the struggle we have made for human rights and the effect of this upon our citizenship. After full and forcible caboration of this great therme, its principles and the part It must and yould play as a world force, Governor Heyward proceeded to make this application direct to his hearers. He continuingly showed that while every citizen had duties and responsibilities of citizenship, from which there was no escape, it was the trained and educated from yhom most was expected. The growth and influence of citizenship in this contwas the trained and educated from yhom most was expected. The growth and influence of citizenship in this con-bection was clearly traced, and it was amphasized that the progress of liberty and enlightenment called for broader and enlightenment called for broader

He emphasized fils interest, as Govrnor of his native State, in the great rause of education, for in so doing he knew he was permanently advancing the standards of citizenship.

MENACING DANGERS.
He spoke of the dangers that grew and increased with our national growth, and emphasized strongly the absolute and increased with our national growth, and emphasized strongly the absolute necessity of maintaining a balance of growth between the physical, mental and moral.

Governor Heyward, with telling effect, laid stress upon individuality and character as corner-stones of this great citizenship, citing Washington, Lee and Jackson as examples that would live through time. The insepiration of the past would forever be a force for the future, because citizenship means being true to self, just to mankind, loyal to country, obedient to God.

In closing Governor Heyward conclusively showed that character of individuals must make the citizenship of a nation, and impressed the fact that "unto whom much is given, of him much would be required." The world needs men now more than ever before; its accumulating problems must be solved by men of lofty principles. The great "character initiative" of American citizenship, its duties and its responsibilities are needed by a waiting universe, the destiny of which depends upon the Anglo-Saxon race.

Public Free School Education in Virginia His Theme at Blacksburg.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
BLACKSBURG, VA., June 16.—Hon. H.
St. George Tucker on Monday morning delivered the annual address to the Maury and Lee Literary Societies, His theme was "Public Free School Education in Virginia." Mr. Tucker, from his remarks, is deeply interested in educational work, especially primary training.
He said the old design in public schools was to teach reading, writing and arithtional work, especially primary training, He said the old design in public schools was to teach reading, writing and arithmetic, generally styled the three R's-Readin', Ritin' and 'Ritmetic-but he believed in the three R's-Head, Hands and Heart-a practical education in primary schools.' Mr. Tucker showed in his remarks how the system had been and was abused in Virginia, giving statistics of the attendance, which is only about one-third of the children of school age. He impressed upon the young men of the day the impertance of paying teachers higher salaries, so that those really fitted for the work would not hesitate to apply for public school positions, and thereby do away with makeshifts.

Mr. Tucker, during his remarks, in fected wit, which helped more fully to illustrate his theme. Fifteen years age he addressed the societies here, and said the change which had taken place in that time placed this school foremost of all schools in the South of its kind.

At 3 P. M. the Virginia Polytechnic Institut Band gave one of their interesting concerts.

Holes had been drilled in the safe and explosion of dynamite had twisted the lock. The tools were lying about but the safe was not owned.

The ship carpenter, Aaron Kendall, for whom his daughter in juired through the newspapers, was heard from this morning. He is at work for Captain Hewitt, at North Landing, back of Berkley. The publication in the newspapers rarely fails to find a man who has disappeared. Deputy Marshal West is in Portsmouth and vicinity to-day with papers calling for the appearance of twenty-five or more witnesses who are called by the government to testify. The award for the land by the commissioners several menths ago was $572,000 for 272 acres. The government considers that too high and has instituted proceedings to have the value of the land determined and decreased by a jury. The jury is called and Judge Waddill has set the trial of the case for Thursday.

The land is valuable because of the long water front along the deep water of the southern branch of the Elizabeth River. But the land has been idle for a long time and the government was advised by letters from here that the award was too high, and acting on that information the Attorney-General asked that the award be set askie and a jury trial be allowed for the determination of the value.

CRANEY ISLAND USELESS.
Crancy Island is useless at present for but it has been used but little, because tained from the government to use the Island for hospital purposes after a great deal of effort by former Mayor Johnson, but it has been used but little, because of the cost of maintaining the hospital there. Meantime the recent act of the Legislature forbids the maintenance of the pest-house in the district where the residents are, and consequently the city will be compelled to abandon the present site on Granby Street, and to raze the buildings there, which were used for patients, mostly negroes, having contagious diseases. The cases of smallpox have always been imported. There are none here now, but the sanitary officers say that a negro is likely to walk into the city at any time with well-defined symptoms of the loathsome disease. In such an event the sanitary officers are in a quandry. Craney Island is an admirable place for a hospital for contagious diseases, because it is isolated and healthful, but the city councils have not provided a boat and an appropriation sufficient for the use of the Island for that purpose. The result is that the city has no place for isolating patients who have infectious diseases. But there are no such patients.

TO CRIPPLE FERRYBOAT.

John J. Townsend, an engineer in the employ of the lessees of the Norfolk and Fortsmouth ferries, makes the charge that C. A. Buck altempted to induce the fromen of the ferry steamer Elizabeth to tamper with the machinery in such manner that the beat might be wrecked at her dock while attempting to make a landing, had the plan been put into effect. It was stated at the office of the inspectors this morning that the plan was to have a portion of the crank, and which is of great importance, so fixed that it would fall te perform its functions. At the same time the plan, it is charged, was to have the electric lighting apparatus of the wessel fall. This would have rendered it most hazardous to the people abourt the ferrybeat, which is charged, was to have the electric lighting apparatus of the wessel fail. This would have rendered it most hazardous to the people aboard the ferryboat, which very probably would have been crowded at the time. The vessel, which would have been practically beyond control, might then have crashed into her dock and sunk, with perhaps great loss of life. Preparations for the investigation have been completed.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

BOYDTON, VA., June 16.—The Democratic County Committee of Mecklenburg met here yesterday to determine whether the candidates for the county offices should be nominated by a convention or by primaries.

The committee decided in favor of primaries and directed that they be held on the 10th day of September. This plan adopted is inquestionably the most popular one with the people. The committee at the same meeting elected ex-State Senator Thomas N. Williams county chairman to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Walter V. Gregory. Owing first to the wet and then the dry weather, the wheat and oat crops of Mecklenburg are almost an entire failure. I heard two farmers talking yesterday, and one of them said he hardly expected to cut his oats and the other said his crop was a failure. The farmers seem now dead in earnest about making a orop of corn and tobacco and they are pushing right along with their work.

Jones Murder Trial,

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

WILSON, N. C., June 16.—To-day's developments in the Jones murder trial have been meagre. The morning was consumed with the filing of affildavits by the defendants for a continuance and argument on the same by the counsel.

The Judge announced that he would take the matter under consideration and would render his decision when formed. A Carrier Pigeon.

A Carrier Pigeon.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

SCHMEITZER, VA., June 16.—Quite an interesting visitor arrived here in the shape of a carrier pigeon Sunday with a silver band on his foot, with the letters T. C. and the numbers 1724 engraved thereon. The pigeon is now in the possession of Postmaster D. Schmeitzer, of this place, People are curious to know who owns the bird and where he came from.
